

The goal of Six Senses Laamu Wine Program is simply to offer the most exciting wine experience to each of our guests, from beginners to the most dedicated wine connoisseurs. We are confident that guests with the most experienced wine palates will be overjoyed with the opportunity to experience wines they have always heard about or maybe just revisit an old favorite.

Six Senses Laamu's wine list reveals a weighted interest in wine styles that complement our multi facets restaurants. A vast number of these selections are made using sustainable organic, biodynamic and natural practices.

Biodynamics follows the precepts of the educationalist and social philosopher Rudolf Steiner (1861-1925). Applied to viticulture it follows on from the biological approach acknowledging that not only should one be as environmentally friendly as possible, eschewing the use of herbicides, pesticides, insecticides, chemical fertilization and the rest, and that the land should be ploughed in order to be given back its natural level of micro-fauna and -flora; but that there are further interests to be pursued, most importantly the influence of the moon, stars and their astrological position vis à vis the earth, and that the vine will respond and flourish if given what are often homeopathic doses of certain naturally occurring plants and other elements.

We invite you to engage both your server and sommelier in dialogue about the wine list.

CORAVIN

Exclusive Wines by the Glass

The Coravin wine preservation system was founded by Greg Lambrecht. He combined his knowledge of medical needles with his passion for wine to develop a unique wine storage system that allowed him to pour wine without removing the cork. The wine tastes as if the bottle has just been opened, even if it is years later. This ingenious system allows us to serve a great selection of exclusive and premium wines by the glass.

"So, who is this "Moderation" everyone tells me to drink with?"

NATURAL WINES

Totally different, alive and delicious!

Natural wine is the unfiltered, untamed, un-photoshopped version of what we know to be wine. In most cases, natural wine doesn't look or taste like a typical wine. In fact, some natural wines taste more like a sour beer or kombucha!

So, what is “natural wine” anyway?

Natural Wine Definition

According to latest edition of The Oxford Companion to Wine:

- Grapes are typically grown by small-scale, independent producers.
- Grapes are hand-picked from sustainable, organic, or biodynamic vineyards.
- Wine is fermented with no added yeast (i.e. native yeasts).
- No additives are included in fermentation (yeast nutrients, etc.).
- Little or no sulfites are added.

Of course, there is no official or regulated definition of natural wine. So, if someone says you're drinking a natural wine, it technically doesn't mean anything – ask for specifics!

Here are three moderately well-known examples:

Orange Wine: This is a white wine that's made like a red wine where the skins and seeds stay in contact with the juice during the fermentation. Orange wine uses ancient techniques and is popular in Friuli, Italy and neighboring Slovenia.

Pétillant Naturel: (aka “Pet Nat”) This is a type sparkling wine that uses the oldest sparkling method called Méthode Ancestrale, where the wine finishes fermenting in bottles, which causes it to carbonate with a natural spritz. Look for Pet-Nats from the Chenin Blanc from the Loire Valley.

Col Fondo Prosecco: A funky, unfiltered version of Prosecco like you've never had before!
