CITY DISCOVERY

MARRAKECH

Welcome to the one of the most exciting vacation destinations. Marrakech, the so-called 'Red City', capital of the Great South, was once a of such importance that it gave its name to Morocco, the thousand-year history is rich and turbulent, with an extensive cast of characters.

Now it attracts movie stars, writers and artists, and visitors looking for something a bit different. We have selected the most interesting guided tour which presents different aspects of lifestyle in the city, an overview of the city's cultural credentials.

MEDINA

The Medina (Old Town) the grandest part of Marrakech, this neighborhood has a colourful cultural history and is where you will find many of the city's most archetypically sightseeing. The area is punctuated by the great imperial palaces of Marrakech, some wonderful museums celebrating the city's heritage.

Jemaa El Fna

The cultural heart of Marrakech, Jemaa El Fna is a primal and ancient space. Gathering place for a thousand years, this is where the great Saharan caravans, laden with spices, slaves and salt would arrive from Timbuktu.

Today, things may have changed, known as the city's circus, open-air food festival and living museum, it is the distillation of Marrakech's mystique and magic.

At first glance, Jemaa el Fna is uninspiring. But spend some time here or on a Café Terrace and the essence of this place will slowly reveal itself. When once the sun sinks in the west, everything changes. Now, the main square Jemaa el Fna's famous food stalls materialize and the fragrant smoke from a hundred grillades wafts into the night air.

JEMAA EL FNA THE CULTURAL HEART OF MARRAKECH, PRIMAL AND ANCIENT SPACE.

As for the second one, Le Jardin Rouge of the Montresso Foundation, a creativity lab. It is more of an artists' residence, encouraging multiple dialogues and accompanying the dissemination of contemporary art to the public.

MARRAKECH FOOD TOUR

Whether you are vegetarian, vegan, or a meat-lover like most Moroccans, there are plenty of dishes to whet your appetite.

For the latter, the highlight of the tour is the roast lamb and the beef Tanjia. Tucked in a narrow alley near the main square, called the Meshoui Alley, is a tiny shop with an underground oven where sheep are roasted to perfection.

As for Tanjia, very few people are proud of their local dishes the way Marrakchi people are. This dish is a delicacy and is only consumed occasionally, usually on Fridays and holidays.

Vegetarians and vegans should not feel left out: Vegetable tagines, soups, plain and stuffed breads, fruit juices, as well as tantalizing Moroccan pastries are everywhere. Our guides have selected the best eateries in town and have done enough research and acquired enough experience to guarantee you the best places to eat in the best possible order.

Facing Lake Lalla Takerkoust and the sumptuous Atlas mountain range, the restaurant Le Floukais a must-see for your lunches under the olive trees. It is also a chic retreat after the day trip and offers a welcome respite from the drive. # BEACH AND COAST

Essaouira has fine beaches. The wind, known as the Alizée, stirs up a lot of sand, often too windy for comfortable sunbathing, but there's plenty of action in the sea, with windsurfers and kite-surfers vying for the best waves. To the south of Essaouira, hotels and other modern buildings line a wide sweep of beach that stretches 3 km to the mouth of the river Oued Ksob, and the village of Diabat. This small village close to Essaouira's medina in which Jimi Hendrix used to have a large villa. Nowadays it's a ruin, but the little café he used to go to is still there and you can enjoy a drink sitting in the sun on the terrace.

ESSAOUIRA

At 186 km This little harbor is an ancient fortified town along the sea. Between Marrakech and Essaouira, the landscapes change very fast, going from luxuriant vegetation to red desert, trees, cultivated fields, typical little villages and lost in the nothing, little herdsman construction. The main souks are on Avenue de l'Istiqlal and Avenue Sidi Mohamed Ben Abdallah, along the Boulevard Mohamed V where we have several fish restaurants, the most popular one is the Chalet de La Plage. Between the square and the port are the grilled fish stalls, where freshly caught fish and sea food can be grilled in front of you. Stop at le Domaine Val d'Agran which is a winery owned by Charles Milia, as well you can stop in one of Argan oil cooperatives run by women.

OUALIDIA

For a change of scenery, we recommend Oualidia. It has an abundant natural beauty and a restful beach, except for July and August when a lot of Moroccan tourists spend some of their holidays. Named for the who built a Kasbah there in the early 17th century, the village is best known for its oysters and its restaurants. It is also popular with migrating birds during autumn and spring. At the edge of the lagoon of Oualidia, discover an ideal place for relaxation and rest, La Sultana Oualidia offers a welcome respite from the drive. Lunch is delicious the restaurant, offers a wide choice of dishes - a feast for the eyes and taste-buds.
